County Keeps Tax Same As Last Year

Members of the Palm Beach County Commission ended four weeks of budget studies Tuesday when they adopted a budget tentatively with the millage the same for 1963-64 as it is for the 1962-63 year. Many parings were necessary in various departments before the more than a million in extra requests could be whittled away.

Night studies were also on the program for the first time in 20 years, according to Commissioner Paul Rardin who has assisted in preparing the annual budgets for many years. Rardin's vote on Tuesday of this week carried its weight in holding the budget where it was last year.

In a night meeting on Monday night, without Rardin present, the commissioners were split two and two on whether or not to raise the budget .371 mills. Two were for raising it and two were for retaining the old millage. Tuesday afternoon Commissioner Rardin expressed his desire to hold the millage to the same figure as last year and the conservative element of the board set aside proposed expenditures in amounts large enough to hold the line.

The tentative budget of $12,850,849 is about $750,000 higher than last year's.

County Commissioner Edward Bandlow signed the memorandum making the budget figure unanimous — but he did so reluctantly. His pet project, the $255,000 second phase of construction for the county home and hospital expansion, was dropped from the budget to hold the millage line.

Several other projects, including extension of Congress Avenue by three miles from golf Road to Delray Road, were dropped to hold the line.

Bandlow argued that the hospital was a necessary facility and that something else should give to hold the line.

But after he and Commission Chairman E. F. Van Kessel exchanged heated remarks, Bandlow gave in.

Van Kessel said a number of new private nursing homes will be built and county patients can be housed in them until the second phase can be built.

He said it would also give the county a chance to see if private care is cheaper for county patients than public care.

Now the tentative budget will be advertised for a public hearing July 15 when citizens may object to items or suggest added ones.

Commissioners will decide what to do on the objections or suggestions and then adopt a final budget.

Included in the budget are raises for about 98 per cent of all county employees.

Mrs. Ray Ursy returned to Canal Point, Sunday, from Tampa, where she visited her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Fender. She was accompanied home by her daughters, Fennella and Ralena, who had been the house guests of the Fenders, last week.

Miss Kansas Todd left Thursday to spend her vacation in the mountains of North Carolina.

Stetson At DeLand Gets Ford Grant

DELAND — A Ford Foundation grant of $1.5 million to Stetson University has been announced by Stetson President Dr. J. Ollie Edmunds.

The university was the only institution in the South selected with 12 other colleges in the nation to receive the special program-in-education grants.

Stetson is required to raise a total of $3 million in funds—over dollars for each grant dollar—over a three year period.

Institutions receiving the grants were selected on the basis of their tradition of scholarship, plans and ability to make pace-setting improvements, leadership qualities, strength of support from alumni and geographic locations.

New Bank Building Contract Is Let

On Monday, July 1, bids were received for construction of the new home for Bank of Belle Glade to be erected in Belle Glade across the street from the old postoffice building. Braddock Construction Company of Belle Glade was low bidder on the job. Work will start immediately.

"We are offering a full banking service to the Community," says President E. B. McDaniel, Jr. "and hope to open our door for business on November 1st. Commercial and installment loans as well as banking-by-mail are among our services."

"Provision for handling banking needs with foreign areas, and especially, South and Central America and the Islands are included in our plans."

The Bank of Belle Glade, chartered this year has a Paid in capital of $300,000, surplus of $120,000 and undivided profits of $66,000, for a total of $486,000 capital structure.

Stockholders are principally Glades farmers and business men, with correspondent affiliations to insure efficient handling of major banking needs.

Working space is designed for modern banking requirements with sufficient ground space for expansion as needs indicate.

State Workers Get Pay Increase

TALLAHASSEE — The state cabinet has approved a new pay scale for some 13,500 workers covered by the state merit system. These were the first pay boosts to reach the cabinet level since the termination of the legislature which authorized the record $987 million general spending bill.

The merit system workers will average a raise of seven per cent for the 12 months starting July 1. The cabinet also approved new job classes for several state agencies, through which many workers will shift into higher pay jobs.

Among the agencies affected by this action were the Motor Vehicle Commission, Conservation-Department, Industrial Commission, Beverage Department and the Park Service.

"Towns, businesses, entire states are hit"

New Hampshire's recent decision to increase state income by means of an official lottery was something of a shocker to a lot of people. Now comes another idea from the Midwest.

Nebraska is reported to be preparing to consider a constitutional amendment that would authorize the state to go into the trading stamp business.

In its initial form, the proposed amendment would allow the state to print and merchandise trading stamps, contract with commercial firms for their distribution, and establish a redemption setup.

The report I read didn't say whether the State would have a monopoly on trading stamps in Nebraska—only that the State "would be a competitor of national trading stamp companies."

However, backers of the idea estimate the stamp plan would enrich the State coffers by some 5 million dollars a year.

THE FARM FRONT

BY DOYLE CONNER
COMMISSIONER

FLORIDA DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

I don't believe there's ever been a period when agriculture has received the amount and kind of attention it is getting today.

It's about time, too. City people have been having trouble understanding farm problems for a number of years.

Now we're at the point where even farmers are finding it difficult to understand the rapid changes taking place in agriculture and the tremendous scope and complexity of modern problems affecting their welfare.

The recent wheat referendum has sort of brought things to a head so far as the political aspects of the farm situation are concerned.

One Washington report recently stated the Capitol was "still in a daze" from the unexpected defeat of the Administration's proposed program for wheat.

Since that upset on May 21, the commentators, analysts and assorted crystal gazers have been making all sorts of predictions and guesses about what will happen next.

One interesting thing to me is the manner in which the picture of today's agriculture is being painted for the benefit of the general public. More and more the mode of today's farm life and the magnitude of agricultural operations are being presented in a manner to encourage the interest and understanding of our rapidly increasing urban population.

This trend is important, because the number of Congressmen from urban areas—the ones who will be deciding the course of national agricultural policies from now on—is increasing. It is estimated there are now 300 "urban" Congressional districts and only 137 that are "rural." And the number of American citizens without a farm background is increasing.

For a new type of farmers, on a new type of farm, trends are bringing prosperity. Machines, management and bigger farms are the answer. But the future is dimming for those who fail to stay on top of the "adjustment." Many farmers are losing out, drifting to the cities.

U. S. News & World Report sent a photographer-reporter team out to the Midwest recently to find out how farmers are doing today. They came up with an excellent article to which the editors called attention in these words:

"Farming in the U. S. is changing so fast it is becoming something of a mystery to city dwellers—and to many farmers. Farmer's 'revolt' over a Federal wheat plan is only one sign of big, unsettling changes."

"For a new type of farmers, on a new type of farm, trends are bringing prosperity. Machines, management and bigger farms are the answer. But the future is dimming for those who fail to stay on top of the "adjustment." Many farmers are losing out, drifting to the cities.

It is, but that sort of advertising not so long ago was mostly confined to the agricultural press and trade publications. To find it consistently these days in a general interest national publication means that the city readers are getting a closer, more intimate look at farming. They're being educated, knowingly or not, to the importance of agriculture in our economy.

Miss Croft And Dow McClelland Wed

The marriage of Miss Jacqueline Jeanette Croft and Samuel Dow McClelland was solemnized in a candlelight ceremony at the First Baptist Church, Belle Glade, Friday, June 28 at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Luther A. Key, pastor, performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli, giant white mums and pompons, against a background of palms and candelabra.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown fashioned with fitted bodice of chinchilla lace, having long tapered sleeves ending in points at her wrists. Her full skirt was of silk organza, and her veil of illusion was attached to a crown shaped of seed pearls in orange blossom design. She carried a white Bible topped with a cascade of pink sweetheart and Sensation roses, white feathered miniature carnations and stephanotis.

Mrs. Don Cook, matron of honor, was gowned in pink chiffon over deep rose with rose accessories. Her crescent bouquet was of shell pink Tinker Bell miniature carnations. "Today we need a nation of Minute Men citizens who regard the preservation of freedom as a basic purpose of their daily life"

-JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY

10 days after his inauguration
as the 35th President of the United States.

Twenty years ago, in the dark, uneasy days before Pearl Harbor, the Minute Man of Concord, timeless symbol of our Nation's determination to defend its freedom, emerged as the emblem of the U. S. Savings Bonds Program. When war came, the Minute Man became the rallying force behind the huge and overwhelmingly successful effort to back our fighting men with War Bonds.

In this, the 20th anniversary year of Savings Bonds, the Minute Man of Concord calls all Americans to an unremitting effort to help preserve our peace and freedom, threatened by forces more powerful and resourceful than those we faced in 1941. Though this effort will take many forms, one way open to all is the continued investment in Shares in America, U. S. Savings Bonds, by "citizens who regard the preservation of freedom as a basic purpose of their daily life."

Adams listed a number of top priority state problems to be met, ranking quality education as foremost. Others are conservation of natural resources, fair tax assessment, elimination of wasteful duplication and strict adherence to constitutional government.

He said the state tax structure must be reworked and equitable tax assessments must be made. The philosophy of "pay as you go" must be followed, he declared, as opposed to "owe as you go."

New 3 3/4% interest on U.S. Savings Bonds

The Treasury explains why the new ones you buy and the ones you own now are better than ever

Q: How does the new 3 3/4% interest rate benefit me?

A: With Series E Bonds, the rate turns $18.75 into $25.00 fourteen months faster than the old rate. Your savings increase faster, because your Bonds mature in just 7 years, 9 months.

With Series H Bonds, the 10-year maturity period stays the same but more interest is paid you each six months. With both E and H Bonds the new rate works out to 2 1/4% for the first year and a half; then a guaranteed 4% each year to maturity.

Q: When did the new rate become effective?

A: June 1, 1959.

Q: Does the new rate change the Bonds I bought before June 1, 1959?

A: All older E and H Bonds pay more now—an extra 1/4% from now on, when held to maturity. The increase takes effect in the first full interest period after June 1.

Q: Will the Bonds I own automatically earn their new rate?

A: Yes. You don't need to do a thing—just hold on to your Bonds.

Q: When my E Bonds mature, will they keep on earning interest?

A: Yes. An automatic 10-year extension privilege went into effect along with the new interest rate. This means your E Bonds will automatically keep earning interest after maturity.

Q: With the new interest rate, should I cash in my old Bonds and buy new ones?

A: No. The automatic 1/4% increase makes it unnecessary—and in almost every case it is to your advantage to retain your present Bonds.

Q: How are series H Bonds different from series E Bonds?

A: The chief difference is this: You buy H Bonds at full face value and the interest is paid by Treasury check every six months for the life of the Bond. You buy E Bonds at 75% of face value and the interest accumulates to maturity. H Bonds provide income for living expenses, while E Bonds build a nest egg for the future. That's why many retired people hold H Bonds and families saving for, say, a child's education, buy E Bonds.

Q: In what denominations can I buy series E and series H Bonds?

A: E Bonds: $25 (cost $18.75), $50 (cost $37.50), $100 (cost $75.00), $200 (cost $150.00), $500 (cost $375.00), $1,000 (cost $750.00), $10,000 (cost $7,500.00).

H Bonds: $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000. They are priced at face value.

Q: How safe are U.S. Savings Bonds?

A: Savings Bonds are an absolutely riskless way to save. The United States Government guarantees the cash value of your Bonds will not drop, that it can only grow.

Q: What if my Bonds should be lost, stolen or destroyed?

A: You can't lose. Every Bond purchased is recorded by the Treasury. If anything happens to your Bonds they are replaced—free.

Q: Where can I buy Bonds?

A: Buy E Bonds at any bank—it takes only a few minutes. Buy them automatically through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. This Plan means you can have any amount you name automatically deducted every payday. The Bonds you buy by installments are delivered to you automatically, too. Your bank will take your order for H Bonds.

Q: How do I help strengthen America's peace power when I buy U.S. Savings Bonds?

A: Peace costs money—money for military strength and for science. And money saved by individuals helps keep our economy sound.

MRS. ROBERT CLINTON MAXSON

Miss Sylvia Anita Parrish Is Married To Robert Maxson In Church Ceremony

Miss Sylvia Anita Parrish became the bride of Robert Clinton Maxson in a candlelight ceremony at the Pahokee First Methodist Church, Monday, July 1, at 7 p.m. with Rev. Robert A. Snelley, pastor of the Canal Point Methodist Church, officiating. The double ring ceremony was performed under an arch entwined with star jasmine and ginger lilies, flanked by candelabra, against a background of palms. Following the vows, communion was served from a silver goblet to the bride and groom. The communion table was graced with a family Bible, a lily and one candle. The altar rail was entwined with greenery and lilies.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schuler Parrish of Pahokee, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Winston of West Palm Beach. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell James Maxson of Canal Point.

Nuptial music was furnished by Miss Dottie Lair, organist, and Dr. Robert L. Hatton, soloist, who sang, "I Love Thee", "Through the Years" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in a white peau de soie and jeweled rose point lace fashioned with fitted bodice, pointed wrist-length sleeves, and featuring a full skirt ending in a cathedral train. Her veil of illusion was attached to a crown of jeweled lace and tulle, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids. Her only jewelry was a single diamond pendant, a gift from the bridegroom.

The maid of honor, Miss Deborah Ann Parrish, sister of the bride, wore a gown of pale gold satin with matching accessories and she carried a crescent bouquet of orange orchids. Mrs. Gary Clark, matron of honor, wore a gown and used accessories, identical to those of the maid of honor.

Russell J. Maxson served as best man for his son, and ushers were Alvy Early and John Smith, both of Canal Point.

The mother of the bride chose a dress of turquoise lace with matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. The mother of the bridegroom wore pink silk organza with matching accessories. Both Mrs. Parrish and Mrs. Maxson wore corsages of vanda orchids.

Those assisting with the reception which was held in the social hall of the church, were Mrs. Paul Rardin, Mrs. Lloyd Hundley, Mrs. Boyd Vorhees, Mrs. Jack Spencer and Mrs. J. S. Barwick.

The bride, a graduate of Pahokee High School, is a senior student at Orange Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, Orlando, Fla. The groom is a graduate of Arkansas A & M College, Monticello, Ark.

After September 1, the couple will reside in Pahokee where he is a coach and teacher at Pahokee High School.
